

Sarah Lawrence College Thesis Submission Agreement Form

Note: Please direct any questions about Digital Commons and this Agreement to digitalcommons@sarahlawrence.edu.

Student Name:

Title of Thesis:

Thesis Advisor(s):

Graduate Program:

The DigitalCommons@SarahLawrence asks that you, as the creator and contributor of your work, grant the College permission to share your work in an open-access digital environment, which is intended for educational purposes. You and any co-authors retain all intellectual property rights to your work. You are giving the College permission to make your work available to all users and to migrate it to accessible formats as necessary. The College will not make any changes to your work. Requests for use of your work for purposes other than education will be referred back to you as copyright holder.

Review of submission:

Authors will have one opportunity to review the abstract, citation, and related data before the document is publicly available on the site; therefore please be sure that the paper is ready for public distribution. Once the paper has been reviewed and approved by the Graduate Studies Office, it will be made publicly available. Once the paper is publicly available, authors will no longer be able to make changes or revisions.

Permission:

By giving your express permission you are agreeing to the following Thesis Copyright and Distribution Agreement.

I certify that the thesis is my original work and that I have the right to grant the permissions contained within this agreement. I also certify that, to the best of my knowledge, my work does not infringe upon anyone else's copyright, patent rights, trade secrets, or trademarks, nor does it constitute defamation, invasion of privacy, or other rights of any person or entity. Material such as video, images, music, or data sets owned by third parties and included in my work is acknowledged and appropriately cited. When legally required, signed statements have been attached from the owners of any such material, allowing distribution as specified in this form. Furthermore, if my project includes interviews, I have included signed permissions from the interviewees to make their interviews public.

I as the author or creator of the thesis retain all ownership rights to the copyright of my work. I also retain the right to use all or part of my thesis in future works (such as articles, books, websites, etc.).

By submitting my thesis, I grant Sarah Lawrence College the non-exclusive right to digitally archive, and if appropriate, make this thesis accessible, via DigitalCommons@SarahLawrence, or any future online institutional repository, to the Sarah Lawrence College community and/or, if I so choose, make it available outside of the College, retrievable through the Internet. I also agree that Sarah Lawrence College may, without changing the content, convert my digital copy to any medium or format necessary for the purpose of long-term preservation. Responsibility for any copyright infringement of my work, downloaded from DigitalCommons@SarahLawrence, will fall solely upon the infringing user. I also understand that I may request, in writing, that my work be suppressed from DigitalCommons@SarahLawrence. Upon receipt of such a written notice, Sarah Lawrence College will cease and desist from making my work available.

Please read the following distribution options, check the appropriate box, and then confirm that you have reviewed them by filling in your name, email, and date and having your thesis advisor do the same. The form will be submitted electronically to the Sarah Lawrence College Library and a digital copy of this form will be included in DigitalCommons@SarahLawrence with your thesis. A copy of the agreement will also be mailed to you and to your thesis advisor.

1. Open Access. Your thesis will be discoverable via Google and other search engines. Open Access serves the scholarly and creative community by sharing your work with others around the world; exemplifying the nature of graduate work done at Sarah Lawrence College.

2. Restricted for one year; then Open Access. Delay release of the entire work for one year from date of submission for publication or other proprietary purposes. After one year, your work is automatically made available to the world through Open Access.

3. Restricted for two years; then Open Access. Delay release of the entire work for two years from date of graduation for publication or other proprietary purposes. After two years, your work is automatically made available to the world through Open Access.

4. Access restricted to SLC (campus access) only. Allow access only on the Sarah Lawrence College campus (via IP address) and to current Sarah Lawrence College community members via DigitalCommons@SarahLawrence with valid MySLC login credentials. Consistent with past practice, the thesis will also be available to other libraries via Interlibrary Loan (ILL).
